Description Parade, downtown Kitchener; King St & Frederick St [?]; City Hall

Notes note on reverse – do you know this Kitchener); note from Stacy McLennan, Waterloo Region Museum I would say it is in the mid-1930s or early 1940s. The Kitchener cenotaph/war memorial was unveiled in 1929, and was originally located on a traffic island on Frederick Street, near King Street as shown in this photo. In 1949, the cenotaph was moved to in front of the Kitchener City Hall at the corner of King and Frederick Streets. It was moved once again to its current location, the corner of Frederick Street and Duke Street East, in 1973 when the city hall was torn down. The cenotaph was also rededicated by Queen Elizabeth during a royal visit in 1973.
